

SON OF CONFEDERATE CHIEFTAINS DEAD

Captain Robert E. Lee Dies at Country Home, "Nordley," Near Upperville.

END. WAS NOT EXPECTED

For Long Time He Had Been Ill, and Stroke of Paralysis Hastened Demise—Body Will Rest Beside That of Father at Lexington.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., October 20.—Robert E. Lee, son of General Robert E. Lee, died at his country home, "Nordley," near Upperville, at midnight last night. Mrs. H. Foster Lee, his wife, and Colonel Robert E. Lee, Jr., a nephew, were at his bedside when the end came. The death of Captain Lee was not unexpected. He had been suffering from Bright's disease for some time, and within the last three weeks he suffered a stroke of paralysis, from which he never fully regained consciousness.

The remains will be interred by side of those of his distinguished father, at Lexington, at 10 o'clock Friday morning. The funeral party will leave Upperville, on the South Railway, early Thursday and will reach Lexington some time Thursday night. Colonel Robert Lee, who has charge of the funeral arrangements, stated to-night that the pall-bearers had not been selected and no other details had been arranged except that it had been decided that the burial should be at Lexington, Friday. Captain Lee was educated in private schools and in the University of Virginia.

At the outbreak of the Civil War Captain Lee joined the Rockbridge Virginia Artillery as a private. He took part in numerous engagements, and was later promoted to the rank of captain of artillery on the staff of his brother, General W. H. F. Lee. Since the war, Captain Lee had been engaged in farming. He was married twice. His first wife was a Miss Haxall, and his second wife was Miss Juliette Lee of Richmond. He leaves three children.

Captain Lee was the author of "Recollections and Letters of General Robert E. Lee." He was born at the old Lee mansion, near Lexington, National Cemetery, October 27, 1843.

ARGUE DEMURRER IN WESTOVER SUIT

The language upon which the pending action is based. They ridicule the bringing of a suit under the ancient statute designed to give redress to our dueling forefathers without recourse to the field of honor.

But the issue of long standing. The Ramsays and Harrisons were formerly strong friends, but differences arose, and now there is deep animosity between the families. On one occasion Mr. Harrison and his wife were arrested on the charge of trespassing, and were publicly warned in open court to keep off the Westover plantation.

ALLEGED TO HAVE THREATENED TO BREAK UP POST-OFFICE

Shortly after the trespassing incident, Mr. Harrison began the organization of a rural free delivery route, and is alleged to have gone around the county asserting that he would break up the Westover postoffice, of which Mr. Harrison is the postmaster. The letter on which the suit is based, was sent to him, and copies were sent to a number of officials, both State and Federal. Mr. Harrison was informed that it stands on the Westover plantation was viewed by its owner as a personal menace to her safety and to the safety of the postoffice building.

Mrs. Ramsay has owned Westover for fifteen years. She makes her home there with her two sons and a daughter—children of her first husband. She has put the famous mansion house in thorough repair, and to-day it stands as the best example of Georgian architecture in America. Every effort of the owner has been toward making the atmosphere that of the time of its colonial builder, Colonel William Byrd, founder of Richmond.

Mr. Harrison, a direct descendant of President William Henry Harrison, and a relative of many of the older families of the James River Valley, resides in a little frame house near Westover. The suit, while favoring of libel, is based solely upon the statute, known as the antedueling law of Virginia—a statute which has never before been evoked in this community. Lawyers assert that the verdict in the case at bar will establish a noted precedent. If the plaintiff succeeds in recovering damages for his humiliation, it may be expected that many like suits will spring up under the resurrected statute, while, if an adverse decision is rendered, it will tend to make the act a dead letter. The case in a nut shell is that Mrs. Ramsay sent a letter to Mr. Harrison which he considers insulting and calculated to cause a breach of the peace. She maintains that from previous happenings and local conditions she was justified in sending such a letter.

TEXT OF LETTER WHICH IS BASIS OF SUIT

The letter follows:

"Westover, Va., August 12, 1913.
"Sir: I am informed upon reliable authority that for sometime past you have frequently, publicly and vehemently declared your intention to break up the post-office at Westover, and that you have also told the residents of the county that same breaking-up would occur.

"Furthermore, I have no knowledge as to what violent means you may propose to effect this end—whether by fire, explosives, etc. Therefore, you are hereby notified by me, in my official capacity of postmaster of said office, that your presence or appearance at or near said post-office, wharf or road will be viewed with suspicion, and in the light of a menace to my personal safety and the safety of the post-office building, its patrons or employees, or the contents of said building, some of which are the property of the United States government.

"And that you may have no good reason to appear near said post-office or wharf—owing to the fact that you are on a new rural route for mail delivery—you are also notified that no right of any kind whatsoever shall be for you or any member of your household will be received or handled by me or my employees.

"You have already been warned by the Commonwealth's attorney in public court to refrain from trespassing on Westover Plantation or annoying its owners; and a copy of this notice has been sent to Mr. Harrison, one of the peace to the Virginia Navigation Company, to the Post-Office Department and to the Speaker of the House of Delegates, the Hon. R. E. Lee, C. H. RAMSAY, P. M."

COPIES SENT TO PROMINENT OFFICIALS

This letter, which Mr. Harrison says, insulted, humiliated and injured him, was written in duplicate. One copy was sent to Mr. Harrison, one copy to the Commonwealth's attorney, one copy to the County Court, two copies to justices of the peace, one copy to the Virginia Navigation Company, in order that it might know how to dispose of the freight for the Harrison family, one copy to the Post-Office Department in Washington and one copy to Richard W. Byrd, who is the writer, was written (August 12, 1913), was Speaker of the House of Delegates.

Mrs. Ramsay is represented by Richard Evelyn Hamilton, Henry and L. M. Nance, Commonwealth's Attorney for the county. Mr. Harrison is represented by Harry M. Smith, Jr., and Irving E. Campbell.

count. He refused to lose his temper, although baited and badgered by the more temperamental Graham. Once or twice he raised his voice and engaged directly with his belligerent opponent in a wordy battle.

CASE SPREADS ALONG WITH GREAT RAPIDITY

But each outburst was quelled by Justice Kelly, who took matters in his own hands when the witness, and sped the case along with wonderful rapidity. Justice Kelly, with remarkable fairness and firmness, refused to permit quarrels and disturbances. He and Smith couldn't agree on the construction of a vital question, the justice, in his quiet way, asked the witness himself, and kept the track clear.

The element of pathos—unpleasant pathos, harsh and cruel—was furnished by Mrs. Jennie Duryea, the dead woman's mother. She was a widow, white, trembling. She made a brave attempt to control herself, but the sight of her daughter's dress, stained with blood and wrinkled, broke her.

She wailed like a woman stricken with the last time. She cried out fiercely that it was her girl's dress, and struck a sense of horror into the hearts of all the women folk present by saying simply:

"They brought her home in the night, my girl, and laid her body on my bed. The ugly lady, who had a jealous intrigue, of sudden death and dark mystery was unrolled dully and harshly. Even the idea of a country romance was lacking. Only the great mystery remained. The staid jurors sat chewing and nodding. They might just as well have worn masks. They betrayed neither interest nor repugnance. Wonderful studies their faces were, but they drank in every word, every sight, every suggestion, and the chances are that they went back to their hotel just as placidly to sleep as if the men without a care in the world.

Fewer than one-tenth of the curious crowd which rushed to Mineola soon after sunrise, hoping to get inside the trial, Nassau County was produced on a holiday week of this if the trial were held in some great hall. They came in motor cars and carriages, and called up every offholder they knew to gain influence enough to get by the deputy sheriffs at the door.

Dr. Carman sat in his accustomed place by the side of his wife. While the district attorney was producing the story of the diagraph the doctor's face was a puzzle. When Boleman told of Mrs. Carman's intentions of spying upon her husband, whom she confessed doubting, when Boleman told of Mrs. Carman's successful plan to coax her cherubic husband into the country for a day so that the detective might be installed, while it was told how she decided that the little instrument was such a treasure that she would buy it outright, Carman sat with his ruddy cheeks blazing, his close-set eyes narrowed and his head cocked to one side.

VETERANS OF CIVIL WAR RELIVING DAYS OF '61-'65

Europe's Conflict Forgotten in Memories of This Country's Civil Strife.

MEET IN ANNUAL REUNION

Hundreds of Boys in Gray Are Present, While Sons and Daughters Have Their Share in Program—In Session Three Days.

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., October 20.—Europe's great war, the titanic struggle of millions of men, the deadly big sieges, the spectacular military fighting, the fate of Paris, all are forgotten. The pages of history have been turned back. Again it is the Blue and Gray, "Johnny Reck" against the "Yankee." It is the movement of "Stonewall" Jackson's "Foot Cavalry," General Robert E. Lee and the fate of Richmond that is holding the centre of interest. The greatest war of all time is being fought over. The Confederate Veterans—the men who, as followers of Lee and Jackson made history, but now reduced to a thin gray line—are in annual reunion. Scenes of half a century ago are being recalled and old friendships renewed. The occasion is the twenty-seventh annual reunion of the Virginia Division, United Confederate Veterans, and Sons of Veterans. The delegates, numbering several hundred veterans, sons of veterans, sponsors, maids and friends, this morning occupied the city and to-night are in full charge.

MANY SOCIAL AFFAIRS HAVE BEEN PLANNED

While many of the meetings arranged during the three days the reunion is to be in progress are purely of a business nature, many social functions have been planned, and the veterans and young women are being given a cordial reception. The program of the program to-day is the joint meeting of the Virginia Division of Music, when the introduction of the sponsors and maids of honor of the veterans and sons of veterans to the public will be made.

At a meeting of the United Confederate Veterans, Virginia Division, an organization detached from the grand camp properly—J. Thompson Brown, of Richmond, was unanimously re-elected major-general, and Colonel Boyd Smith, of Mineral, Va., adjutant-general and chief of staff. The following officers were elected brigadiers of the various regiments: Colonel J. B. Smith, of Mineral, Va., adjutant-general and chief of staff. The following officers were elected brigadiers of the various regiments: Colonel J. B. Smith, of Mineral, Va., adjutant-general and chief of staff.

The Grand Camp was called to order shortly after 11 o'clock. Commander J. Thompson Brown, Chaplain James C. Reed, of Hampton, who lost an arm in the battle of Sharpsburg, offered prayer. Mayor B. B. Semmes extended welcome to the veterans and their friends in behalf of the city, and Colonel Maryus Jones, commander of Magruder Camp, extended a welcome in behalf of the Confederate veterans.

In the absence of Brigadier-General R. S. Parks, who was taken ill just as he was preparing to leave home for the reunion, and who was to have replied to the welcome, Commander Thompson called on Thomas J. Elam, of Roanoke. Mayor Semmes's reference to General "Stonewall" Jackson as the "greatest fighting man the country ever produced," and to General R. E. Lee as the "greatest soldier and man the country ever produced," were greeted with wild cheers and applause.

At the introduction of the sponsors and maids of honor of the veterans, and Sons of Veterans to-night, Dr. Clarence Porter Jones, commander of J. E. B. Stuart Camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans, of this city, presided, and introduced as the first speaker, Division Inspector E. W. Speed, of Roanoke. Mr. Speed, in turn, introduced Garland P. Peed, of Norfolk, commander of the Department of Virginia. Samuel R. Buxton, of this city, delivered the address of welcome and the response was made by Past Commander W. McDonald Lee, of Irvington. Samour Stewart, of St. Louis, commander-in-chief of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, followed Mr. Lee.

W. W. Old, of Norfolk, past commander-in-chief, presided at the sponsors and maids of honor and the reception response was made by H. M. Strickler, of Harrisonburg. The annual address to the Virginia Division was delivered by John H. Saunders, of Salisbury. Sons of Veterans will conclude their meeting with a business session to-morrow.

Henry County Fair Opens

MARTINSVILLE, VA., October 20.—The Henry County Fair, opened to-day with a splendid line of exhibits and a large attendance. The automobile and trades pavilion were the feature of the morning. The driving horses were the attractions this afternoon. The numerous attractions on the Midway did a thriving business.

NATURAL COLOR TO GRAY HAIR BY AIR

Hair dye is not a natural color restorative. It simply stains the hair by chemical action, and leaves a lustrous finish that tells what you are using. The simple, clean and healthful method is by using Hay's Hair Health, which contains no harmful ingredients. It prepares the hair that the air—the pure, fresh air you breathe—causes it to come back to its natural color. It can't harm. It singles out every faded strand and restores it—makes it grow back to its natural color. No other result can be produced.

If you want these benefits in your case begin at once the use of the natural method—Hay's Hair Health. Not a dye. No one will know you are using it. Any one who purchases a bottle from any druggist who sells it in this town does so with a full understanding that the price is to be returned if the preparation does not please you. Satisfying judgment from the fine results reported among people in Richmond. It would seem that the hair of the world's secret of eternal youth for the hair has been found. Sold in 25c, 50c and $1.00 boxes; made by Ph. H. Specious Company, Newark, N. J.—Advertisement.

Nine Year Old Child Rescued From a Monster

At 120 South Linden Street resides Mrs. Florence S. Duggan and her two little sons, eleven and nine years, respectively. Little nine-year-old Lonnie has been almost a constant sufferer of one malady or another for six years; has had three attacks of fever—in fact, he had a cough at times that seemed as though he had consumption. He has had the best of attention from a loving mother's hand and the best of treatment, but the child could never fully regain perfect health. At times he had a ravenous appetite, then again the sight of food would nauseate him, stomach would bloat, lumps would form, heart would jump and flutter, pains in back of head, sometimes over eyes; dizziness, weak, rundown, tired, languid.

feeling. His mother said: "I have to be very careful of him; it seems as though I have to give this child some kind of medicine all the time. He has had a bronchial trouble ever since he was born. I was afraid he inherited the tubercular disease that his father succumbed to; but after reading in the papers about the worms that affect children and adults, and how the wonderful Quaker Herb Extract had been introduced at the Tragle drug store would expel all worms from child or adult without sickness, dieting or any ill effects, I decided to try them, and a thousand times pleased I am, for after giving it only six days little Lonnie expelled a monster life-sapping tape-worm forty-one feet in length, head

TANGLED LEGISLATIVE SITUATION CLEARING

Once More There Is Hope That Adjournment of Congress Will Come by Saturday.

REVENUE BILL IN CONFERENCE

Cotton Relief Plan Meets With Vigorous Opposition—Distress of South Said to Be Private Matter for Private Resources.

WASHINGTON, October 20.—With a compromise cotton relief proposal under consideration in the House and a slight easing of the tangled legislative situation cleared slightly to-day, and hope of adjournment of Congress by Saturday again was felt. Cotton forces in the House, which had been holding up the revenue bill to force relief legislation, gave way when the House Rules Committee reported a special rule for consideration of the Lever cotton warehouse bill and the Glass bill authorizing the acceptance of 100 per cent commercial paper as a basis for Federal reserve currency. The rule carried a special amendment to the Glass bill to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to deposit in cotton and tobacco States $250,000,000 2 per cent government notes maturing January 1, 1916.

With the understanding that this proposal was to be considered in the House, the cotton States' representatives allowed House leaders to send the revenue bill to conference. The conference session ran well into the night, and all undisputed sections of the bill were agreed on.

COTTON RELIEF PLAN HAS EARLY OPPOSITION

The cotton relief plan, which was proposed as soon as it appeared in the House. When the rule was called up a point of no quorum by Representative Bulkley, of Ohio, held up further business. The cotton States' representatives, the sergeant-at-arms struggled to round up enough members to do business. When a quorum was obtained, Representatives Mann, Payne and other Republicans and Representatives Glass and Bulkley, on the Democratic side, denounced the cotton amendment vigorously.

Another tie-up came when an effort was made to end debate on the rule. Representative Glass insisting a quorum should be present. A roll call disclosed only 168 members, and the House finally adjourned.

An effort will be made to bring up the cotton proposal to-morrow, although, under House rules, Wednesday must be devoted to consideration of the pending legislation. Representative Payne, attacking the cotton proposal, declared that "if every part of the country in distress as a result of the war is to be helped from the Federal treasury, we will need $900,000,000 will suffice." The relief of the South, he asserted, was a private matter, and should be left to private resources.

VILLA HAS 15,000 MEN SURROUNDING CITY

Delegates to Peace Conference Protest That Aguascalientes Is in State of Siege.

MEXICO CITY, October 20.—General Zapata will go in person to the peace convention at Aguascalientes. He is to reach there late this week, and all action on formation of a provisional government will be suspended until his arrival.

Many protests are being filed against alleged outrages by Villa's soldiers, who are said to be holding up delegates, and at the point of the pistol, demanding that they shout "Long live Villa." It is declared that generals, too, have been accosted in this manner.

A protest already has been made that the neutrality of the convention is being violated by the presence of 15,000 Villa troops within an hour's ride of Aguascalientes. They were brought up from Zacatecas. The delegates claim the city is in a state of siege.

HOPE OF SPEEDY PEACE HAS BEEN SHATTERED

WASHINGTON, October 20.—Recent developments, it became known to-night, have shaken the belief of officials here that the contest between Carranza and Villa, for control of the political situation in Mexico, was about to be adjusted.
